Sir,

He have now been using Rowand's Charcoal Powder for casting Silver for some time, and I regret to say that it is intolerably bad in lightness that the 6 barrels received from him on the 15th Sept. are nearly used up, so that we need to order another lot. moreover their excessive lightness causes them to fly all over the melting rooms, and out into the area, and they are the chief cause of the dust & dirt to which we are liable. Of course all powdered charcoal will fly in use, but this very light coal flies about propusely. I sew some remarkably fine charcoal in the agricult. Exhibition made by a Mathieu in Dehrylkill, which pleased me by its remarkable density, & I urged The maker to send samples to the mint with prices. which I trust + believe he will do.

Sir;

In reply to your query as to the loss in working base metal, I respectfully state that, with the numerous and large residues to be weighed up on closing the annual accounts, and their being too much huddled together for want of space, - and because the copper for alloying filver, and that for the cent metal, are too often liable to become intermingled, being used in the same melhing room, - therefore I do not think it pase to draw positive conclusions as to the amount of wastage. Formerly, with less pressure for Rilver coinage, and a large cent-coinage, we determined the wastage more exactly, and found it to vary from I to 6 per cent, more nearly the latter than the Jorner. If we were therefore to assume

In response to your communication of the proposal to supply us with an amount of our former Copper bent to be converted into Bronze coin, I beg to say That I have repeatedly endeavored within the last 15 years to utilize the bld bopper Cent by making it into the Brouse Alloy, but invariably with the result, that a large amount has been thrown back on my hands by the Coiner as wholly unfit for Coinage from its hardness, cracking & blistering, and difficulty in brightening, and that we failed in every device to nender the metat pit for coinage. The amount of metal lost at each melting usually, 1@3%, - the time consumed in rolling, te for coinage, then remelting because of its in practicable character, together with waste of fluxes, and wear Hear of crucible and purnace in striving to bring The old cent browse to good coinage quality, - all lead Hon. MINT OF THE UNITED STATES,

MELTING & REFINING DEPARTMENT,

Philadelphia, 13th lug. 1879

Sir

In conformity with the wish of the Director of the Mint, I herein offer a few remarks and refuty of the letters (of the 16th June) of the Assayer, and Melter and Refiner to the Superintendent of the United States Assay office, New york, on the Sub-ject of Filver containing Selenium.

The presence of selenium in some silver bars, and its damaging influence on the quality of the metal have been so well handled by the lessayer of this mint, that I cannot add anything to his statements and conclusions, except that they resolved some hitherto unexplained difficulties in working silver, to the satisfaction of all the officers of this mint, who thought that the Interchange of observations with the officers of the laster, and might on A. London Snowden horove

Hon. A. London Snowden Superintendent prove of value to the public service.

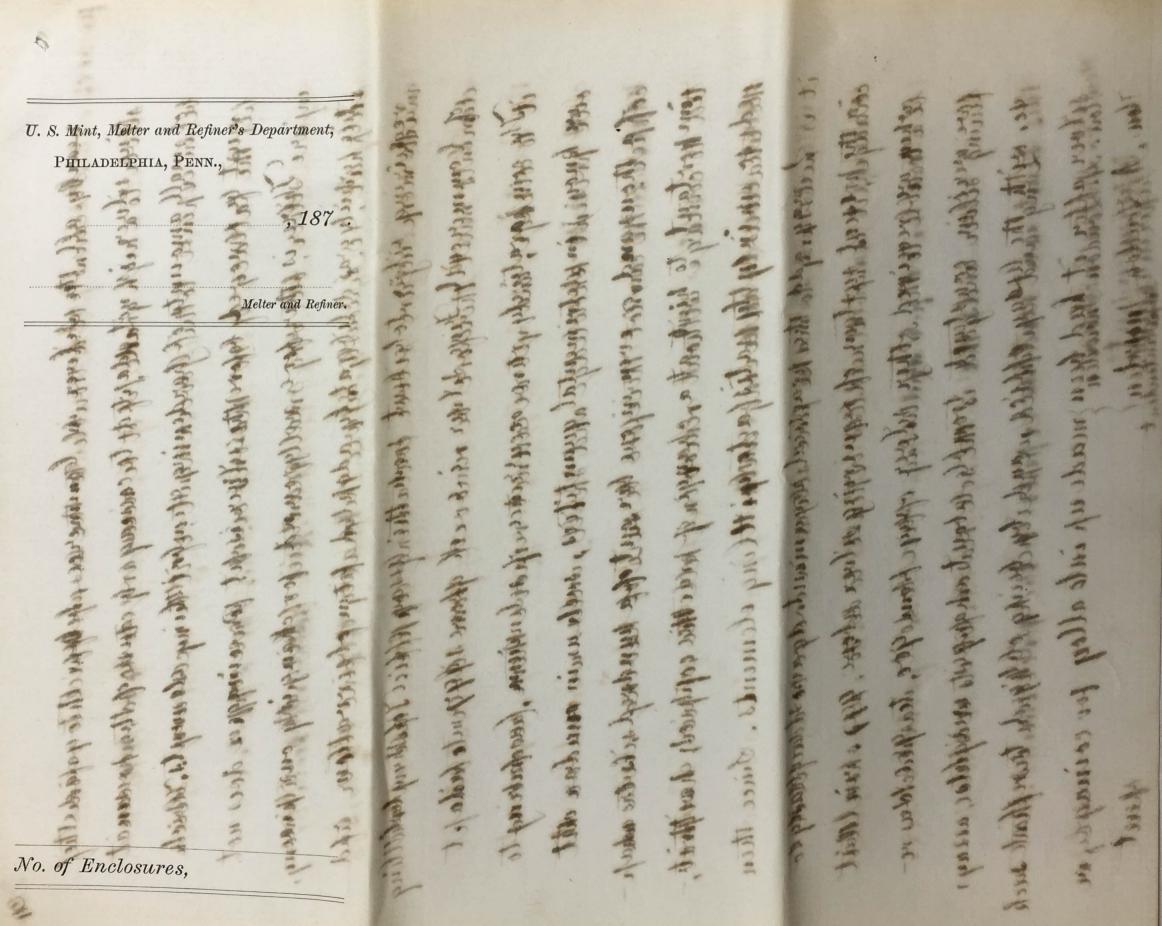

Hon A Loudon Inowden } Superintendent.

Mason's letter, in which, after a sturring dismissal of the Adenium question, he advances his oft repeated solicitation, that he may be allowed to forward from the New york assay office to this mint, silver of a less fineness than 997½, because such an arrangement would avoid all trouble concerning direct shipments to the Mint, and that, the expense of taking copper out of thousands of ounces, only to be put in again at the Mint, would be saved to the Jovernment."

Since it is no more trouble for us to receive fine silver than when alloyed with copper, M. Mason evidently means that it is troublesome for the lessay office to refine it, as well as needless to do so, while it an expense to remove the copper and replace it again by other copper. In short he means that making fine silver to be sent to this Mint is a needless expense to the government.

It cannot be a trouble to the array office to refine the silver to a high grade, if it be necessary to do so, nor can it be an expense totte Government, if it be necessary. Herein lies the fallacy of mr mason's views. Pure copper does not injure silver, but very small quantities of bismuth, autimony, sulphur, to seriously injure the quality of fine silver, and much more injure silver containing copper. These embrittling elements must therefore be removed from silver to adapt it to coinage, and yet we cannot remove them, according to our present knowledge and skill, unless we remove the copper. We cannot therefore be sure of having silver adapted to coinage without removing all the copper, & with it, the tenaciously adhering embrittling elements. Since then it is necessary to make fine silver in order to adapt it to coirage, it is not a needless expense to do so, nor should it be a trouble to the N. y. assay office to do it, marmuch as refining silver and gold is the sole reason for its existence. Long and continued experience has shown us that Hon. A. Loudon Inowden ? nearly nearly all the Silver in Commerce, below the grade of fine silver, is not adapted to coinage because of the presence of small amounts of hardening & embritting elements, which must be removed before the silver is fit for coinage.

There is therefore no ground for changing our practice, which was deliberately adopted from observation, of requiring silver tobe sent from the assay office, of the grade of Commercial Fine Selver, i.e. of above 997m fine.

The comparatively rare occurrence of pelenium (as far as we know) in detrimental quantities, such as in one bar out of a thousand, or even in one bar out of a hundred, is too unimportant, to hint at a change of practice, which has proved so eminently satisfactory.

I may add the practical argument against a change in the present system of requiring silver above 997, vix that when we received other silver, say from 900 to 980, te.—
we were in constant trouble about charges, weights, assays, te. with the lastay office, and by being obliged to refine such silver after it had been made up into alloy for coinage, we How. A Loudon snowden superintendent superintendent

The Mint of the Anited States, PHILADELPHIA, PENN., Assay Department, August 15, 1879. Hon: A. London Inowden Superintendent te te Without feeling any disposition to debate or contend, it seems necessary, that some uply should be made to the documents lately sent from the U. S. Assay Office at new York, in regard to the presence and effect of Selenium, in silver. as a matter of "theory" or hypothesis in which light both the Superintendent and the assayer place it, we should not think it worth while to pursue the subject, but as a matter of fact, and of practice, it is highly interesting, and would be very important, except that we are, happily, not often troubled with it.

We evere not aware, that the operative officers at new York had suspected, the two years ago, the presence of Selenum or Selevides, as a cause of rendering their silver brittle, and had not succeeded in finding it. as you are aware, we were started in This inquing by the report of a chemist and metallugist in France. So far as we know, the matter has even eluded the vigilance of the British Mint, or any other mint. and it was truly a matter of surprise, that here, in almost atomic minuteness, should be found a morse enemy than any we had hitherto found, or searched for.

Without delay, this selenium his iness, both by analytis and signthesis, was put into the hands of our M Eckfelst, HM. Outerbridge, to operate independently. From them I have concurrent results, which I will now condense for your consideration. We had none of the suspected acid, or copper; but we had brittle silver bard from New York; and we had other silver, and pure selenium, and pure copper.

The six samples sent to New York, some all foread to contain selenium, here; but only two, there. - In testing for this element, if the last trace of nitic acid used to dissolve the alloy, is not eleminated, the characteristic reactions do not take place. It is easy to fail from this cause, even when selenium is present in considerable quantity.

The assayer there, finds no selenium either in the acid or the copper now used; which is very satisfactors. It may, however, the assayer There, finds no selenium either in the acid or the copper now used; which is very satisfactory. It may, however, have contaminated both, when the bass in question were refined, months ago. No doubt the present inquiry will be of use to keep it out in future; and in that uspech, they will rejoice with us.

The two samples of silver ingots notled, or vainly attempted to be wolled, are handed to you hereinth, and are every way remarkable and instructive; and show that we are not dealing with them, but with practice.

(110. I was made of fine silver, brught to 999 by selenium and lead; we may Say a hace only, of each. after assay, it was alloyed with pure copper, to standard. You observe that nothing could be more refractory, and unfit for use, in coinage, or in the arts. No. 2., composed in the same way but per from lead, is if possible even worse than no. 1; wonderfully hard and brittle. These results are very different from those obtained by the Ussayer at new fork, Who finds that selenium does not impair the tougheress of silver, either fine or alloyed. In further experiments made here, we find that if the mixture is tolerably ductile before the addition of copper, that very addition, of the best copper, will destry the ductility; and this trouble occurred in the alloging and morking of bass, bearing the ny. stamp, whether refined there, Very respectfully or elsewhere. M.E. Dul Bors

Supplementary Mote.

Since the foregoing was written, our Melter & Refiner has shown me his remarks whom the matter re-opened by the Melter & Refiner at new York, in regard to refining copper out of the silver, only to put it in again.

Om MAR has giren a clear review of the state of the case; and I mould take occasion to add, that every where, Lo far as we are aware, silver is brought to the fineness, or nearly so, before it can be considered negotiable, or fit for market. He only exceptions are doré (partible) silver, or silver which has been expressly alloyed to standard, or sterling fineness. The nature mytures are not at all merchantable.

There is therefore nothing unicasonable, in our asking to be supplied with fine silver for om mork; or else, which does not often present itself) with selver melted down from coin; that is, if we are to make no refining and melting charges. Justons not familiar with the subject, as a useless and even wasteful proceeding, to remove the copper, and put copper back. and I would therefore put it in the form of a query, not to say a doubt, whether We have sufficiently tied to dispose of this difficulty, in the large way. I do Do be cause an experiment lately made in my department, in the small may, seems to prove that the either gold or Silver, however brittle, and alloyed mith copper, may be made perfectly tough by a very simple method.

While our Mr. Outerbridge was detailed for duty at the re-opening of the New Orleans Mint, he chanced to fall in mith a gentleman from Mexico, who has the management of several mints there. He was parparety conversant with this very subject; and stated that all their silver was made perfectly tough by the addition of a very small quantity of oxide of copper, in the process of melting. He oxygen left the copper, to assimilate with the other base and embrittling metals or elements, and carrying them off; leaving its own its own metallic copper, which only served a useful purpose as an alloy. This method, it is true, is in some of the books, but seems to have attracted very little attention hitherto.

A small quantity (four ounces) of brittle, coppery gold, was tried in this department; the smallest pinch " of oxede of copper made the gold perfectly ductile. And what it mill do for gold, we may surely expect it mill do for silver. At any rate, it needs to be tried, in the large way. But then, the trials should be made at new York, before the silver is forwarded; otherwise we are put to the expense & maste of the previous melting, without any allowance of charge or mastage therefor. and besides, the Institution at new York professes, and certainly intends and mishes, to give us selver ready to put into ingots. Once more, the spirit of candor mill make us prompt to admit, that faulty rolling, and cracking, is not always due to a fault in the metal. Only two days ago, we made an ingot of proof silver for assays, chemically pure; and it came through the new rolls, in the rolling-room, cracked and broken, wary hastry. This was from some inattention in adjusting the rolls, or in running the strip through. He same thing has happened in our small rolling. This however is of rare occurrence, and does not at all clash with the matter now in hand, the presence of metals or elements which produce brittleness, and which has, as you know, Sometimes returned large quantities of split and broken strips, to be remelted and refined. I have examined the bill of Charles S. Meyers against David Blair, one of my workmen, for drinks furnished over bar, and amounting to $5.75, and I have made further inquiry relative to the same. David Blair admits the correctness of one half the bill (or thereabout), but le. S. Muyers insisted upon the whole being paid. David Blair has since paid the whole, altho declaving it most unjust to him. I agree with you asto the impropriety of any one being here, who is in the practice of making such bills, & showing unwilling ness to pay them. I never heard of Blair's doing so before, but have always found him reliable for integrity of willingness to work. altho'he finds

Sir,

The question raised by the assayer in the enclosed note, should I think receive your attention, Lit is therefore herewith submitted to you for your opinion.

There are 25 or 26 bars, amounting to 50,289.20 ox. in 11,603.40 ox. of which Gold is reported, and which should of course be refined by Parting with acid. The Coalance 38,685.80 ox. should be refined either by fluxing at a charge of 14 pr. ox., or by acid at a charge of 12 of pr. ox. If refined by fluxing alone, the softening result is not always certain, & still more uncertain is the amount of loss in fluxing, which may exceed the charge. In the last case the government may lose therees over 14 pr. ox. or more; while if the toughening by fluxing should not be perfect, the government must lose by remelting, waste of time threans. Imperfect toughering by acid is extremely rare, & easily remedied, and in the vast majority of cases is both more effective and cheaper U. S. Mint, Melter and Refiner's Department,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.,

Melter and Refiner.

No. of Enclosures,

In consideration of the Interests both of the Government and the Depositor, I think it would be better to refine the whole by and. The charge will be $193.42 more than the charge for toughening by fluxing, but I verily believe that the losses in fluxing, so as to fit the metal for coinage, will exceed that amount in value.

The expression of the lossayer "very hard d'intractable" is always alarming in view of the condemnation of ingots for hardness, to when rolled, when we are specially driven to our utmost in rapidity of quantity of production.

very respectfully yours Int Booth

Dr. Dir I am in recept of yours of July 21 and I must say I was a good deal surprised at the action taken in the premises by Rrof Boothe of am satisfied and Knew all along that me Booth was to say the least in an immistateable manner adverse to me or my good of the extinct crucible firm of Booth & Mages this fact is Known by all Crucible Ingto, I myself was told that they could (or would?) only use Laylors Pots, so it seem a some what and accours action to undertake to get part of the Work of the H. S. minh Whatever reason they have for being so ousided and disposed to find fault with my good as well as others They could not do it consistently in anything expling as to some of those Jots not beeng burnt as much as they might have been - but, for all that there was not a Crucible I send down but what would have stood the annealing or first heat with any ordinary case, haver when men are prejudiced from the begin ming, and in their hierry to get through slab the of in a quick charcaal fire & close the did, what can be expected but what a crucible is liable to bursh miless it is burnt hard, of coarse then the cry is vaised & the Pot condemned outright as the best means of getting rid of so presistent a customer I have proved to be for about a year, as the case stands is all mast similar to one I experienced at the hand of Prof Booth & his Foreman in Febry 1873. I had a lot of dippers on hand wich I asked her Booth to buy of me, he asked me to send him one day for trial wich & did, they having for ved satisfactory he told me to bring them down some time afterwards & came in Mr Booths Office when he as once up and accused me of bringing him deples different from Sample and that they were good for no I thing I was a good deal surprised at this, the more so since I there exactly what I how those dippers were as to quality as well as their being brunk, from the fact of having handled them every one of them myself on several occassions, this was when the crucible firm of Booth & Magee was alive _ I of coarse demed having brought any such goods there but they ovould have it and tried very hard to convince me of believing what they occured to believe, explicially Frank Garriques would have it that those good for nothing bourne up Caps came from my place, but I would not let them accuse me of anything so base of any proof on their side swith the cartainty on my side of being in occeat of the ac cusation a all this time of Ruera all about these very cups when & where they arme from and how they came to be burnt up as they were, so all I could do was to get the proof thereof to do this I went to Charles Gerlack, who had been in the Crucible Dussinesp, and being a Favorite of Fref Broth had the princlege to the exclusion of every body clas like our friend Laylor has now of supplying the Government in the bussiness, afternounds Booth & Meager bought out first Gerlacks Partner of thew Gerlack , from him I Knew the

Tohole Fransaction, where they after buying out Gerlacks Dartner removed from their old place to their new one (build by Porth & Magee) at 19th & Gallowhill, they moved all their unburned as well as other Crucibleste, but nothough wanting some dippers at the mint, and not having any burns they took a lot of them with some Crucibles to market It Pottery to get burnt, not having their own Wiln ready for use, and there is where those Deplers were burnt allmost to ashes from when they found their weigh to U. S. Munh to be laid at my door of stated these things to Gerlach & asked him to come down to the must for the pur pose of refreshing the Wind of Booth as well as. his Forenace, When we got in the Office I at once brought the subject up but somehow when they seen bhs. Gerlack they seemed to have forgotten all about Them Deppers as they showed no inclination to get at the bottom of the affair a much or on after I went these again and no oroner had I entered the Office then Prof. Booth said , I am glad you have come for I was just about sending you word to come and get your money, not wishing to keep up the con troversey I ment away but I was so discusted that I did gether five years - Sast exting a year ago I went in and seen On Broth he told me to send in my bid to your predessor wich I did and I got are Order, but no sovier had my Noto been tryd then They began to find fault again, matters went on this way mutill October when I round to the 18 outh about some Pato

I had made at the suggestion of the Governor, but the Prof put me off time and again mutill he made up his mind to see the Governor on the subject. when me got to his Office Brof Brothe stated his view of the matter and I stated mine, afterwich you. Tollock said , now Im Booth give this man aw Order for 100 no 70 Corneibles, and give them a fair Fesh. and if any thing is the matter with his Pots, down condemin them before you send for him for the purpose of giving him a chance to look and see what is the matter, sometime after was told by one of the assh Foreman, the Pots were good enough, but somehow they would not let the heat go through and it would take longer to melt in them then in others, then I went in Prof Booths Office and asked him, he went out and returned with the same report, saying he did not Know what to make of it and he would look in to the matter, This mas the last of heard of the Pots mittell I seen you when I was greeted again by Rrof Boother complaint, he did not send for me as requested by your predessor, nor say any thing to me allthough I called on him several times to get an order but preferred to bias your mind right at the beginning against me before you even Knew me after given me a chance to have my Pots tested, but it seems through In conthusion allow me to ask your pardow for bringing this matter up again, but I felt it to me more thew just and right to pre sent the case in its true light. I am only sarry indead that I fell constrained to trouble you with this statement as it must be some am order to test my Pots at any time - Respectfully yours How A. Sonden Snowden 3 Suph. U.S. Mint. Dear Sir:

Not having seen you lately and knowing that you are desirous to have the drawings for your furnace completed as early as possible, I write to say that we are building a small heating furnace for our smith shop, which will receive its coal supply as in our rivet heating fires, but the apparatus for supplying it will be entirely different and if equally effective will have marked advantages over that now in use, and of desire to try this before making your drawings. The trial afthe new feeding apparatus will involve a months delay perhaps, but if this new arrangement works satisfactorily, it will be so much more simple and convenient that you would insist upon using it, particularly as with it you coald, if you desired, have a continuous and automatic coal supply. Jours truly-

The Mint of the United States,

PHILADELPHIA, PENN.,

A Memorandum of dates, in relation to the late William Barber Eng. Engraver of the Mint; and a Freamble & Resolutions on the occasion of his death, offered to the meeting at the Mint, September 2. 1879.

Mr. Barber was born in London, May 2°, 180°, He was there connected with establishments for manufacture of Silver wares; and for die-engraving, chiefly in connection with that branch of huminess.

In September 1852, partly from a desire to better his condition, and partly from a strong Republican sentiment, he from a strong Republican sentiment, he came to this country. For several years he was imployed in New England. In Sept. 1865 he entered the Mint, as an assistant to Mr. Longacre, then the Engraver.

The following Reamble and Resolutions are submitted for consideration:

Whereas, in hy the sovereign will of God, Mr William Barber, Engraver of the Mint, has been removed by death; and we, the Officers, Clerks, and Workmen have met to express our sentiments & Sympathy on this sad & solemn occasion:

Mesolved, that in parting with him, we lose the co-operation of an affable, active, pains-taking, and menitorious officer; skilful in one of the most difficult of all arts, and evincing progress and improvement in it continually.

Resolved, that we sympathize with his family in their beneavement, and present them with a copy of these proceeding, signed by the Officers of the meeting.

In January 1869, upon the death of Mr Longace, he was appointed to the position of Engraver of the Mint; in which he continued until death. He was Therefore 72 years of age, although his appearance certainly did not indicate that advancement in life. He had been on buty here for seventeen years. It is not necessary here to devele upon those personal characteristics, which made him an active & agreeable fellow-laborer in the important mock of this Institution. Indeed, being by law the Engraver of dies for all the mints, his nock extended beyond our boundaries.

This year Care Ist Hall Banks the demand for these proof sets will be much larger at the mints than usual, as there has been no minor fractional silver coined, and consequently no one has any bearing the date. The Chelses. mints, however, will coin proof sets, and these on account of the small number coined, will time become very valuable: Already numerous Trafz. inquiries are being received at the mints as to when these proof sets will be struck off.

I have received your letter of the 6th instant relative to the strain upon the rolls of your Mint, incident to the large coinage of standard silver dollars and stating that inasamuch as the rolls of American manufacture are not egnal to the English, you propose purchasing some from Moss & Co. who supply the British Minh and asking to be informed if same can be brought into the country free of duty and whether they can be haid for from the standard silver dallar apprapriation. In reply I have to state that if you will notify this office when the rolls are received in the country, application will be made to the Secretary of the Treasury to direct - that they be admitted free of duty, and that when the rolls are delivered to you, if you will approve and forward the bills to this office, I will request the Decretary to cause payment to be made from the appropriation named. I would respectfully suggest that you have a guarantee that the rolls are sperfect in all respects and in case of sproving defective on trial that they be replaced free of expense to the Hoverment,

Sir.

Mour communication of the 6th instant in Segard to purchasing planchets for the coinage of & pieces has been becaused.

In dividing the Coinage of 30,000 bronze & prices as soon as practicable I did Not intend to singe its humediate coinage.

In the hunths of fune and July last nearly as many one cent prices were coined as during either the years 1877 or 1878, and the coinage of the past fixed year amounted to over 97,000,

Probably the demand for

as it has, and I expect that the pressure at your minh for the coinage of the Blandord dollar mill be telived by increased Coinage at other Minto, Should this he the case you will then doubtless, be able to do all the work in your wind, including the preparation of the huelal as well as the Coinage of the one cent prices, which seems to have heen intended by the comage ach and to be preferable when practicable, Section 3528, of the Revised Statutes lequires the punhace of metal for the Minor coinage by Public advertisement, and the Movision would apply to its punhase in the form of planchets as well as in jugato.

Considerable time nice clapse before bids Can be awarded and planchets oblained Hom outside manufacturers. Houver if you will inform me the catinates that are made by your Weller and Refiner, the cost of the Planchelo prepared in the mint, and send we also, the offer of the firm you mention who propose to Jurnich the plancheto, I will unless your Julie allottment for the coinage of Standard dollars is reduced, cause an advertisement to be prepared for the planshelt if it seems fref-Evable to do so. The Mint of the Anited States, PHILADELPHIA, PENN., Assay Department, Ott 21, 1875. note for the Superintendent. after a view of the gold bars just rec? from Kelena, & mithout marting for the assay, I begleave to suffer that the Assayer in charge there, he carriestly requested to toughen his gold, before making the returns to his depositors; so that whatever loss may occur thereby, Shall fall upon original owners, and not upon this Mint. Of course we have always taken brittle gold, but we change for the toughening, which we cannot do, in correspondence mith an U.S. Office. Mint of the United States October 3 nn 1879. Han. A. Loudon Snowden, Superintendent. I have the hour to state that great difficulty has been experienced in working Dollar Sugots, manufactured Jun Mexican Dollars. The lugots do not appear to be solid but porous - and frequently in the breakdown they show brittleness. The annealing of the strips develope blestors all over the surface, and it is often necessary to cut up and colum for remelting, agreat deal of material that if used would largely augment our deliveries of con. For instance, take the lot of Sugots delivered Deptember 30th and worked festerday. These weighed The 144.401 and were largely compared of Mexican Dollars. Nine 19/ her cent (ou 13.525 40) of the sutire amount has been returned as useless, owing to blisters and brittle ness-I do not think all this trouble should be attributed to the Silver of which the Mexican Dollars are composed - Tomble is afound ni working Lugots made from other silver - Indeed the lot being worked today, is said to have been made entirely from Clippings, and from appearances the proportion of bad metal will be as great and probably greater than the lot already referred to. I do not pretend to say how an eligot can be cast to that it is solid, but I do say that if solid lugots are supplied there will be not trouble in working them. It is well known amongst the men who handle the nigots that brittle metal and blistered strips, come from Sugots that are not solid -I may add incidentally that the labor entailed on this Department is in no aree represented by the amount of coin produced. I think at least Dix (6) per cent more labor was expended report the corriage of last month, than the result in Dallans shows - in other words, had the Sugots used last mouth been solid, and compred of good metal, the productions would have been at least org Collection Very Respectfully Jatob Sewit Och. note for Dr. L. The explanation made to Mr. Goldsmith is the best that can be made, I needs no addition, or alteration, except a slight one at the end. I would like to say however to Di L. (and to the Superintendent if morth while) that the proportions of gold contained in this lot, agreed very closely with the corrected proportion in his previous lot . the evere greatly annoyed, of course, by the discovery of our error, which grew out of suremany from assurant fragasian hartward, and which cannot occur again, under the more quarted method. I would also say, that such lots, which are mere sereepings and garbage so to speak, ought to go first to a private refinery; just as the Mint disposes of its own sweeps. Keally, one of these base lots, gives more nock & trouble both in melting & assaying, than a large amount of fine or standard gold, Xit is from such customers that we usually have complaints.

L'Expinglin-12 Oct. 7/76 M. Goldsmith Shortetum, & Goldt Silve defor-I 3 paper filed howeth. Red Oct 10/79

I may all that if theregulations had been enfred in 1977 and in the recent instance, you bould have had no reason to complain, as the deposit world have been rejected. The modes of making the test in 1877 were new dered me: cessary of the by the base character of the but: lion, in other word the official in charge west out of his may to accommodate you and by doing that duliceted hunself to an error which could to not have taken place by dealing with hullion received in Conformit with distructions after a very Careful and full yourination of the case, I am satisfied There is no error and Hal you have received full value for the bullion deforited.

On neply of your letter of 4th inst. as the walve of, as remittance of low grade of gold, as reported in Mem. * 372. I have to say: The deposit in question has been sent to the refinery. It is impossible to reassay it; but as two passays made exactly agree, each being full assays of 1000, there is no reason to suspect any The loss in melting was very large to the books as very base: full examination was made at the time, Is the heavy loss seemed to be July explained by the base quality of the metal. after all the melting of fluxing to remove the base metal, there appeared to be only 495 hants of silves $82 of gold. Thowing that there still permaines 423 farli of base metal, so you the ment, as you will see by the enclosed circular require that such base deposits should be nefused & neturned at the expense of the owner. Though in some instances the Weigh blesk has taken the responsibility of disregarding the regulation in favor of some individuals.

as this laxity has had the effect of cousing on several occasions un satisfactory occasions dence. It tedious investigations. I have ordered that the regulations he in future rigidly en-forced. Thus for instance, the other or how of which you complains, at the close of your letter occurred in 1877 in the time of my predecessor in office I was corrected by him, as soon as reputed if occurred oct. 30th, 1877. Do very low, that the full passay weight 1000 could not be taken, & it was the assay mas therefore made upon 500. By a clerical error the doubling of the re-dult which should have been made in the memorandum was forgotten, let this cannot occur again; and did not occur in the present case. Observing that some of our reduced silver began to exhibit tendencies to hardness, brittleness, te. I asked the assayer to test one of the Plates of Spelter yesterday, which had been broken in half, and showed a separate piece of spetter in the middle, as had been previously observed. The assayer tested boths the outer 4the Inner plate separately, but found no perceptible difference between them. Both werehowever of very inferior quality, containing what appeared to be several per cent of lead (+ might be bismuth, te.) I tested some of the impurity, with Mr Eckfeldt, this morning, & found it largely lead, whatever else it might contain. I regret extremely that This obser-vation should have been made so soon, after it, seemed to me to work well, I was reported four by me.

I regret to report to you That the Mexican Dollars received by us for some years past are quite inperior tothose formerly received in softness of metal. a large proportion of the Ingots for coinage prepared from them by this department of the mint are returned upon our hands by the Coiner as too hard, brittle and liable to blister, and therefore unfit for coinage. If we are to render them fit for coinage by refining in the coucible with pluxes, They require at least two meltings, often more, reassay, readjustment of standard, & each operation is attended with more or less absolute loss of Silver. The cost, including loss of metal, is therefore serious. They can be refined more perfectly, I with less loss of metal, by acid refining, Atherefore more satisfactority to the Government account.

Considering the pressure upon this huit for a large amount of work during the Month, about up to the limit four capacity, I respectfully suggest that we can with more certainty accomplish our quota of work, by refining the Mexican Dollars with acid before alloying them again for coinage. very respectfully yours Ja C Booth) Hon. Air,

The bad assay-cut of the Coloradolyold, just received, calls to memory the pad losses experienced the 1st year of our working such Gold, in 1863-4, althow recovered a large amount of it by gathering it up from avenues of loss in numerable

I respectfully suggest that it might perhaps be advisable to melt such gold with a little fluxing, before receiving it as a deposit, in order that the Depositor may at least share some of the loss with the Government. Our former experience in toughening will I trust enable us to do it at the least cost, and with the least loss.

Mint of the United States AT PHILADELPHIA. October 2nd 1879. Hon. A. Loudon Snowden Superintendent I have the chosen to eng gest that some attenations be made in the mode of uitroducing warm an into the adjusting Room. The present anangement for heating the loom is by means of flues running fum the cellar. The air is sufflied to these flues off of. coils of pipe, heated by steam, located in the basement of the building, which are fed by air, except in two heaters, drawn directly from the basement. North eide of the building are fed with air air from outside. The other two (2) are located unmediately over the betting pulleys and shafting that drives the holls and the surrounding atmosphere is very thoroughly impregnated with the oily greary oder usual to machinery and betting of the note. The which oder, with whatever other disagreeable smells there may be haunting the subternaneau passages and rooms, is drawn into the chambers suchsing the corls of pepo and frially discharged into the tightly closed Adjusting Room to mingle with the exhalations from the bodies and months of some Seventy (70) persons! I am satisfied that much of the disagreeable atmosphere of this room m' Writer time, (it is not nearly so bad in fummer, is solely due to the impuno air withoduced through the heating flues

Under there cucumstances I have the hour to recommend that two (2) Steam Radiators for walls, of the Dattern numbered 63 Plate 6 of Mess. Morrio Jaskers + Co's Illustrated Catalogue of 1844 be procued for the Adjusting Room to be fed with exhaust steam, and that the two (2) heaters on the south side be renewed , and the flues closed up. We have been experimenting with the Black Lead Pots of the three makers, with the following results: Those of Ross, Hofer Ramp & Dawson are far inferior to the others, for they get soft and almost melt in the Fire, and some crumble after a day's use

Those of Wile, Seidel + bo. are much better, in fact inferior only in a moderate degree to Taylor's in quality of composition; but they are much too small for our present melts of 3300 ox. making it a risk, to make the full melt in them, of losing metal in the fire; they are also badly shaped, being too Thick at the bottom, so that they require a measurably longer time to make a melt than we desire.

Those of Taylor maintain their superiority in form, sixe and composition, but not so greatly in the last point as they did formerly. Respectfully yours Hon. A. London Inowden suptet.
